Other candidates spoken of for the Democratic nomination are Senator N. W. Utley, of Lyon, and J. H. Coleman, of Calloway. ## State Wide Prohibition Measure Before the Tennessee Legislature to Pass on Veto of Gov. Patterson

Liveliest Struggle is Expected in Senate, Which is Considering Question now—Why Patterson Vetoes the Law.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 20.—After roll call today the Tennessee legislature took up the consideration of Governor Patterson's veto of the state-wide prohibition bill, filed quietly Monday afternoon. It is expected the fight on the veto will center in the senate.

State-Wide Bill Vetoes.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 20.—Governor Patterson vetoed the state-wide prohibition bill. Following are extracts from his message:

"The measure presented for my approval, not only denies these communities a right to be heard, but arbitrarily forces upon them a law which they do not want and to which they will never willingly consent."

"Would those who voted for this bill to become a law have done so if any right of their own locality was involved?"

"Would they not resent interference by other members if conditions were reversed, and bitterly assail the tyrannical exercise of a power which would deprive the people of their own communities of a voice in their own affairs?"

"As a Democratic governor I feel it a duty and a sacred obligation to sustain the platform of the Democratic party, which distinctly states the doctrines of local self government, and this measure directly opposes, defies and destroys it."

"As the governor of all the people, holding my commission from the majority, I protest in their name against an act which will set aside the constitution and hold for naught their recorded will."

"I will not approve a law, by whatever name it may be called or whatever mistaken notions of morality may have influenced it, which will destroy property, reduce the revenues of the state, increase taxation, take the money of our people and send it abroad, foment discord instead of promoting peace, and impair the dignity of the commonwealth."

"In the name of temperance I refuse assent to an intemperate measure which will cause more evils than it pretends to cure, and in the name of morality I will not sanction a law that will foster hypocrisy and invite evasion and deceit in the people."

"In the name of our women, whose true and heaven-born mission is to bless the home and teach honor, courage and truth to their children, who are the strength, the inspiration and the saving grace of man, I condemn any measure which will bring even a part of them into the heated and poisoned atmosphere of political strife."

Prohibits Manufacture.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 20.—The bill to prohibit the manufacture of intoxicants in Tennessee passed the senate by a vote of 20 to 13, on the third reading.

It was generally reported that Governor Patterson said he would not veto the measure unless he was assured that his veto would be sustained. This gave rise to the rumor that some of the statewide votes would be changed.

THREE ARRESTED AT CLARKSVILLE FOR NIGHT RIDING

Clarksville, Tenn., Jan. 20.—John Hanley, John Basham and Andy Crozier, of the Fourteenth district, were arrested charged with arson and extortion. The men are alleged to have been instrumental in driving certain colored families from the district. One indictment charges them with setting fire and burning what is known as the Union schoolhouse, which was used by the colored people. Another indictment charges that on December 24, 1908, they threatened one George Evans with death or bodily harm unless he, the said George Evans, should remove from that community within ten days from the above date. The men were committed to jail in default of a $3,000 bond. Thirteen arrests have been made in connection with night rider depredations within the past three days.

VAUDEVILLE ARTISTS PAWN DIAMOND AND STAGE DIAMOND AND ARE ARRESTED

When G. W. Erwan and his wife, who were arrested at Hopkinsville and brought back to Paducah to answer to the charge of obtaining money by false pretenses from Ike Cohen, the Second street diamond dealer, by pledging a "phony" diamond with him, were put on trial in police court today Erwan said he knew one of the two diamond rings he pawned was a "stage diamond," but he and his wife needed all the money they could get on their jewelry and he took what Mr. Cohen offered him. He said they were vaudeville people and had come to Paducah from Jackson, Miss., in the hope of getting on at a local vaudeville house. They failed and were broke. Mr. Cohen protested that the same ring had been shown him twice, and he thought he was shown two different rings. His son, Carl, said he did not inspect the stones under a glass. J. L. Wolf, the jeweler, declared on the stand that anyone, whether he was an expert or not, should be able to tell the rings apart.

"Jim" Grazies Talks.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Senator Frazier, of Tennessee, today in a speech declared he believed the action of the president in dismissing the soldiers in the Brownsville affair is legal. He took strong ground against the pending bill to restore them. He said those who closely read the evidence have no doubt that, perhaps, ten per cent of the men discharged are actual murderers. The government must take no chances on having murderers in its ranks.

Seely Killed Family.

SHERIFF OGILVIE TAKES PRISONERS TO PENITENTIARY

Sixteen Go to Eddyville to Spend Terms of One to Five Years.

Charles Lee Hill Gets Longest Sentence.

DEPUTIES WHO GO WITH HIM

McCracken county had a decrease of sixteen in population today, and Eddyville a corresponding increase in the number of inhabitants, for Sheriff John W. Ogilvie left this morning at 11:25 o'clock with sixteen prisoners for the penitentiary. The number of prisoners this year was about the average. Last year Sheriff Ogilvie had sixteen on one trip and he accompanied by the following deputies: Jodie Campbell, Tell Carney, Della Thompson, W. Hecker, O. Wright, Leslie Miller, Thomas Holmes and Constable A. C. Shelton. The sheriff and deputies will return this evening.

Their prisoners were: J. C. Henderson, horse stealing, two years; John Bloodworth, obtaining property by false pretenses, one year; John Muse, store breaking, three years; Charles Williams, store breaking, three years; Charles Lee Hill, manslaughter, five years; Henry Huff, store breaking, five years; Harrison Chambers, store breaking, one year; Dick Oakley, setting up a game, one year; malicious cutting, one year; Harry Bedford, grand larceny, three years; William Dunlap, obtaining money by false pretenses, one year; Bob Greer, breaking into a railroad car, three years; Henry Huff, house breaking, two years; Jesse McKay, obtaining property by false pretenses, one year; Jesse Cook, grand larceny, one year; Hoyle Miller, forgery, two years. Three of the prisoners are white and the remainder are negroes. One negro woman will be taken to the penitentiary at Frankfort.

The usual number of friends and relatives of the convicts were at the jail to give them a farewell when the sheriff marched the prisoners out. All of the prisoners sent this term of court are for short terms. The heaviest sentence was for five years, given Charles Lee Hill, colored, convicted on a charge of manslaughter. Some of the prisoners took the occasion as a sad one, while others were jolly and bid friends adieu, as if they would return in several days. Each prisoner shook hands with their companions left in jail, and also gave a farewell to Jonas Smith and George Freeman, negroes under sentence of death for murder.

With the departure of the prisoners the county jail has been reduced to 23 prisoners. Before the next term of court the cells will be full again. Today the jail was given a thorough cleaning and new bedding provided for the prisoners.

All the regular work is carried on, too, and the spare hours are devoted to making the block maps. When the council ordered the block map system made the members gave Mr. Washington several months in which to do the work. A city in the north about twice the population of Paducah appropriated $20,000 for the making of the block map system, and gave several years' time for the work.

Are All Advertised Medicines Fakes?

As well ask "Are all doctors quacks?" or "Are all lawyers shysters?" We all know there are ignorant quacks; does that prevent anyone calling in his good, old family physician in case of need and trusting him? There are shysters, but there are also honorable lawyers to whom we confidently trust our lives and fortunes.

There are fake medicines advertised; but they are not fakes because they are advertised. A good thing is worth advertising; we all want to know about it. The more a bad thing is advertised, the worse for it in the end.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is no fake; yet it is advertised; it advertises itself; and those who have used it are its best advertisers, and that free of cost.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved its merit by more than thirty years general use. This simple, old-fashioned remedy, made from roots and herbs, has become the standard medicine for ailments peculiar to women,—its fame is world-wide.

Read this plain, honest statement of what the medicine did for one woman; her own words; if you doubt, write and ask her.

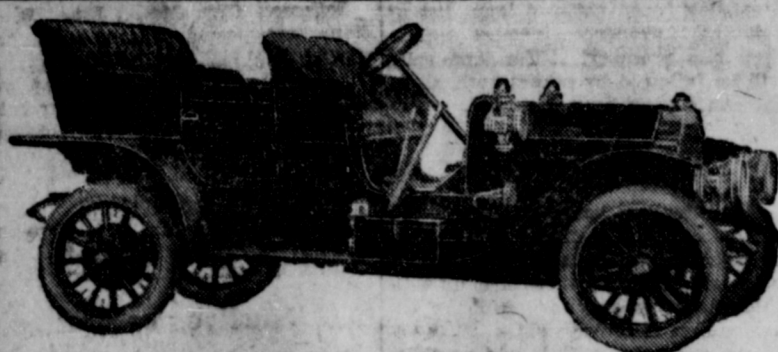

Chester, Ark.—"I used to think I had no use for patent medicines and would not read the advertisements. I think now if I had I would have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and saved myself years of suffering. I had suffered from female troubles for twenty years, and when Change of Life came I grew worse. I got so nervous I could not sleep nights and could hardly get around—I suffered agonies.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and it helped me so much that I continued its use, and I am so well that I feel like a different person. My advice to all suffering women is to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ella Wood.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no plausible stranger—it has stood the test of years.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

LOGGING TIDE

BRINGS ON CLASH BETWEEN FACTIONS IN BREATHITT.

Callahans and Deatons Likely to Renew War—Callahan Asks for Warrant.

Jackson, Ky., Jan. 20.—The present tide in the Kentucky river, which is a God-send to the people of this section, was the source of another clash between the Deaton and Callahan factions. While engaged in rafting logs near his home on the Middle fork, former Sheriff Ed Callahan was interrupted by John Davidson and some of the Deatons and was not permitted to run the timber. As reported here Callahan and the men he had at work rafting the logs were driven from the scene of their labor by force of arms, at least Callahan, under protest, returned from his work on the river to his home and telephoned to Judge Taubee for warrant for the arrest of Davidson and the Deatons. It was learned that Tom Deaton, deputy sheriff and leader of the Deaton faction, came hurriedly to town and left again in a very short time, making his presence or his business known to a very few persons.

On account of the renewed trouble between Callahan and the Deatons it is a matter of general regret here that Sheriff Breck Crawford is at present out of the state, as he has been acting as pacifier between the two factions.

It will be remembered that it was in a similar situation in which James G. Deaton lost his life nearly a dozen years ago, and at nearly the same spot where the trouble started. The Deatons have always claimed that he was killed at the instigation of Ed Callahan. Inquiry at the office of Judge Taubee was answered to the effect that no warrants have as yet been issued.

News of Theatres

What the Omaha Bee Says of Florence Davis.

The Omaha Bee of January 4, says: "Under the Greenwood Tree" glows with the glamour of real romance. It tells of love and adventure, of the whims of a pretty young woman who has wealth and position but whose heart has remained untouched in spite of all efforts of whole regiments of suitors, and who finally wanders away into the forest, there to meet the prince most unexpectedly, and to fall a sudden victim to his glance. And the hero is a young man of sober mien and grave aspect, whose life is devoted to administering his office of justice of the peace in a rural district, and to thrusting out wandering trespassers from his estate. And he, too, falls in love at a glance, and with a gypsy maid, who confesses that she is a thief and the consort of thieves, and the promised bride of a most desperate character.

"Miss Davis works unrelentingly to invest her role with the touch of real interest needed for success, and that she succeeds at all is the highest possible tribute to her ability as a comedienne. She is pretty, has a pleasant voice, and some quaint little ways that serve her well. She shows touches of the eternal feminine in her love scenes and at these times fairly warrants the enthusiastic expressions of the young squire, who pours out his passion in jerky sentences, but with a true lover's fervor.

"Mr. Dexter is a most capable actor, and is thoroughly natural and convincing as the young squire who falls in love with what he deems to be a thrilling gypsy girl and finally learns he has won the heart of a wealthy society favorite. Miss Dudley is very good as the secretary and Mr. Van Sloan shows well as the young lord. The others in the cast do what is required of them very well. The play is prettily mounted, and was well received by the Sunday evening audience at the Boyd. It will be offered again this evening and on Tuesday evening, and at a special matinee on Tuesday afternoon."

Salome Music.

"A Vision of Salome," an arrangement by J. Bodewalt Lamps, which is creating a furore in musical circles of the country, is the feature number of a special program to be rendered by Dent's orchestra at the Kentucky theater tonight, the dramatic offering being the English comedy-drama, "Under the Greenwood Tree." This "Salome music" is a "program" piece extremely characteristic and graphically follows the suggestion of the synopsis, which is printed in the theater program. Paducah music lovers are to be congratulated upon this opportunity of an early hearing of a famous composition.

"Buster Brown."

Thursday night, "Buster Brown," his dog Tige, his mother, his grandmother, Mary Jane and his large retinue of pretty girls will be at the Kentucky. "Buster Brown" is the most successful hero of the pictorial fiction. Successful as pictured in the prints and more so when idealized upon the stage, and this success can be attributed to the fact that the many strenuous events of his many-sided career appeal to everyone in an

SICK ALL WINTER.

Suffered From Bad Stomach and Severe Cough—Doctored Without Benefit—Vermont Man Was Finally

RESTORED TO HEALTH BY VINOL

"About a year ago I began to run down in health, lost appetite and flesh and suffered from indigestion. All the winter I had a severe cough. I doctored without any benefit and finally my druggist suggested that I try Vinol. I did so and soon began to feel better. My stomach grew stronger, my food no longer distressed me, my cough disappeared, I began to gain in flesh and soon felt like a new man. I did not believe that any remedy could make such a change in a person." Edw. R. Wooster, Rutland, Vt.

Vinol contains tonic iron and all of the medicinal body-building elements of cod liver oil, does not taste of the oil and is everywhere recognized as the greatest body-builder and strength creator known for feeble old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, after sickness and for chronic colds, hacking coughs and bronchitis.

Try it. If it does no good your money will be returned on demand. That's our guarantee, but we know it will benefit any such case. W. B. McPherson, Druggist, Paducah.

"Polly of the Circus."

The Courier-Journal says: "Polly of the Circus" has become to the playgoers what "Toby Tyler" was to the schoolboy, for a while the book of unfortunate adventures of the urchin who followed the "big show" in spite of admonition taught the young that even a circus performer has troubles, the play has taught the grown-ups that there are romantic possibilities every time the parade starts and the big tent is pitched. But not the least of the teachings of "Polly of the Circus" is what the managers have learned from the box-office receipts of the play, which opened last night for a week's engagement at Macaulay's.

It was a full house which witnessed the trials and triumphs of "Polly," with Edith Taliaferro in the title role. The applause which Miss Taliaferro received was merited by one whose youth gives promise of greater achievement than to come and whose girlish beauty is not to be taken lightly as an adjunct to that success on the stage for which her family name has stood. That her curtain speech, when called upon repeatedly from the galleries, was only "Thank you," showed her good taste. The coming of Polly and her bedizen coterie has been awaited in Louisville with a great deal of curiosity. Having played in New York for a season, and having been staged there by that wizard of stage effects, Frederick Thompson, the "provincial" theater-goer was prepared for all the spectacular stage artistry that is possible from a master's use of scenery and lights, surrounded by a sizable lot of people, cast with an eye single to a "stupendous production of the aggregated triple-ringed tented entertainment."

Naturally the play is particularly striking in the novelty of featuring a circus ring, with prancing steeds and bareback stunts, all of which go to make up a most stirring scene, while the action of the drama is not sacrificed to the scenery. A variety of stage characters are introduced—rural, clerical, black-face and circus folk. They pleased the big crowd immensely, if the applause that greeted them can be used to judge by.

Earl Ryder, as the preacher who gets Polly away from the ring, is up against the discouraging lines which usually come to the person in the play, but he does the best that can be done with them. Thomas Hofer does good comedy as Deacon Everson. Most of the others perform acceptably their parts in the play, which, while it relies to some extent on its novelty, has plenty of that, and is healthy throughout, and proves to be most entertaining.

Beware of Imitations.

Cheap Substitutes and "Just As Good As."

Unscrupulous dealers, mindful only of profit and caring nothing for the health of their patrons, are offering for sale low-grade, impure whiskey, which they tell you is as "good as Duffy's."

It is a cheap concoction and fraud, intended to deceive the people. Of course, when a remedy has been before the public so long, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in all the prominent hospitals, and has carried the blessing of health into so many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has, imitations are bound to arise. But they can imitate the bottle and label only—no one can imitate the contents.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

Any firm that will sell imitation or substitution goods will sell impure goods. The firm that is dishonest in one thing would not hesitate to be dishonest in another. Whenever you see imitation and substitution goods offered for sale by a firm, beware of anything and everything put up by that firm. You endanger your own life and the lives of your family and friends by dealing with them.

BEWARE OF FRAUDS!

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is sold in sealed bottles only—never in bulk. A fac-simile of the genuine bottle is printed here so that you may easily recognize it. It is our own patented bottle—round, amber colored and with the name "Duffy Malt Whiskey Company" blown in the glass. The trademark—the Old Chemist's Head—is on the label, and over the cork there is an engraved paper seal. Be certain this seal is not broken.

It is the only whiskey recognized by doctors everywhere as a family medicine. At all drug-gists, grocers, dealers, or direct. $1 a bottle. Write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., for free illustrated medical booklet and free advice.

A REWARD OFFERED.

Every electric railway in the United States knows the meaning of "fake" accident claims and fraudulent suits. And no honest citizen exists who would not give assistance to prevent any such corrupt cause coming before our courts in the disguise of woe.

Sometimes the sad-faced rascal who is bringing suit was near an accident but did not receive a scratch; sometimes it is an innocent looking criminal who was not even near an accident; sometimes it is a person who was actually hurt but who was to blame himself or herself—and knows it.

Most of these suits arise when some penny-catching lawyer gets hold of a so-called "victim" as dishonest as himself and wants to "share the profits" of suing the Company.

How are such suits maintained?

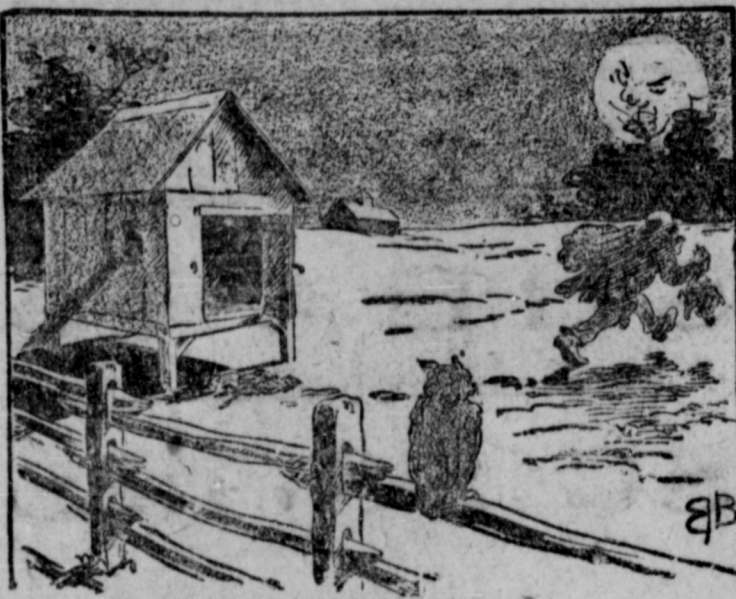

By perjury.

By witnesses who do not tell the truth.

For evidence upon which a conviction, for perjury, of any witness against this Company in an accident damage suit is obtained, this Company will pay $500.00 at any time during twelve months from date of this offer!

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble.

When writing for a sample bottle, please mention the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SALARY OF PREST.
IS MADE DOUBLE

Judges of Supreme Court Also to Get More.

Governor Willson Calls on President Roosevelt While in Washington.—Other Matters.

THE KENTUCKY POSTOFFICE.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The salary of the president of the United States was fixed at $100,000 per annum so far as the senate could fix it, and the salaries of the vice president and speaker of the house at $15,000 each. The salary of the chief justice of the supreme court was increased to $15,000 per annum, and those of associate justices to $14,000. The changes were made as amendments to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, after extended debate. Amendments allowing $5,000 to the vice president and speaker for horses and carriages were stricken from the bill.

Butler, of Pennsylvania, occupied the chair during the debate on the provision of the pensions appropriations bill which abolishes all but one of the 18 pension agencies throughout the country. The bill, which carries $160,000, was passed practically as reported by the committee on pensions. The plan to pay pensioners quarterly was defeated.

The urgent deficiency bill, which carries an appropriation amounting to $1,026,302, was passed after a roll call and several votes had been called for an amendment offered by Heflin of Alabama, providing for the appropriation of $50,000 for further distribution of seeds by the department of agriculture.

Foss, of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, brought up the naval appropriations bill, which probably will occupy the attention of the house for a day or two. The bill carries $135,662,288. A message from the president recommending an appropriation of $20,000 for a commission to investigate conditions in the republic of Liberia, Africa, was read.

The house will hold a session February 14, to hear enologies on the late Representative William H. Parker, of South Dakota. February 21 was set aside for the hearing of enologies on Senator Allison, of Iowa, who died on August 4, last.

Abolish Pension Agencies.

Washington, Jan. 20.—The house voted to abolish the eighteen pension agencies, including the one at Louisville.

The action was taken after a vigorous fight, in which Representative Cox, of New Albany, spoke in favor of the proposition. If the bill passes

Headache
For Years

"I keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills on hand all the time, and would not think of taking a journey without them, no matter how short a distance I am going. I have a sister that has had terrible headaches for years, and I coaxed her to try them and they helped her so much, she now keeps them by her all the time. From my own experience I cannot praise them enough."

MRS. LOU M. CHURCHILL, 63 High st., Penacook, N. H.

Many persons have headache after any little excitement or exertion. They cannot attend church, lectures, entertainments, or ride on trains without suffering. Those who suffer in this way should try Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They give almost instant relief without leaving any disagreeable after-effects, as they do not derange the stomach or bowels; just a pleasurable sense of relief follows their use. Get a package from your druggist. Take it according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

the senate, all pensioners will be paid from Washington. The measure has been pushed at former sessions of congress, but always met with strong opposition and has been defeated in one house or the other every time.

Willson at Capitol. Washington, Jan. 20.—Governor Willson, of Kentucky, spent several hours in Washington en route home from Atlanta, Ga. He was as usual the guest of his old law partner, Justice Harlan, of the supreme court. Governor Willson visited President Roosevelt in connection with the Lincoln celebration.

Postoffices. Kentucky—Bayou, Livingston county, John A. Blankenship, vice Clyde Bradley, resigned; Tatham Springs, Washington county, John Harrison Hungeate, vice H. P. Hatchell, resigned.

The question as to whether the state militia and home guard of Kentucky aided in the war against the Confederacy was debated in the house. Representative Edwards contended that these troops had rendered valuable service during the war and were entitled to a pensionable status. Mr. Langley also spoke from the same viewpoint.

New Postmaster for Woods. Washington, Jan. 20.—Edward Joseph Harris has been appointed postmaster at Woods, Floyd county, vice E. Dotson, resigned.

Memorial to Lincoln.

Washington, Jan. 20.—As a memorial to Abraham Lincoln, it is proposed in a bill introduced in the house today to build a highway from a point near the white house in Washington to Gettysburg battlefield. To defray the expenses of making the survey for the boulevard, 150 feet wide, $25,000 is the appropriation recommended by the measure.

SEASONS OPEN THE MIDDLE OF APRIL FOR FANS.

American League Contest Begins on April 12 and National League April 14.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 20.—President Harry Pulliam, of the National Baseball league, and President Ben Johnson, of the American league, and other members of the schedule committee for the two major leagues met here and compared tentative schedules for the 1909 season. The conflicting dates were reduced to some extent, but the task could not be completed. This will be done at a meeting to be held with the club representatives, to be held in Chicago in a few weeks. The committee went as far as possible and adjourned.

The only announcement made was that the American league will open in the east on April 12, and the National in the west on April 14. While changes were made in some of the holiday dates, nothing would be given out. While here President Johnson, of the American league, closed the season contract with Umpire William Evans. It is reported that a salary increase was allowed Evans.

The following are said to be the opening dates tentatively agreed upon:

An Interesting Speaker. A Baltimore man had decided that he must administer a stern lecture to his 6-year-old son Harry. The boy had been naughty, but did not seem to appreciate the fact; and it was with some reluctance, therefore, that the parent undertook a scolding.

He spoke judiciously, but severely; he recounted the lad's misdeeds, and duly explained the whys and wherefores of his solemn rebuke, his wife the while sitting by, duly impressed. Finally, when the father ceased, for breath and incidentally to hear the culprit's acknowledgement of error, the lad, his face beaming with admiration turned to his mother and said: "Ma, isn't pa interesting?"—Harper's Monthly.

Daily Thought.
I mean to do my duty and live long.—Browning.

Mr. Frank D. Lander, well known in Paducah, has succeeded the late E. W. Carnack as editor-in-chief of the Nashville Tennessean.

The fans now know what they are looking forward to. The American league opens April 12 and the National league April 14.

We have become so accustomed to gazing at the detached head of John H. Woodbury, of Woodbury soap fame, that we are not shocked by the news of his suicide.

The best sign of the times is the action of Montgomery county, Tennessee, grand jury, in returning indictments against alleged night rider citizens. There is hope for Clarksville at last.

Couldn't Louisiana and Mississippi settle their differences over that neutral ground by the exclusive sale of neutral spirits on it? We feel satisfied that all Mississippians and Louisianans, who gather there, are of one mind.

According to the report on the condition of Larue county roads, the statement who travel to Hodgenville will find conditions have been preserved around the Lincoln homestead much as they were when Abe left there.

THE OREGON WAY.

The election of Governor Chamberlain, of Oregon, Democrat, to the United States senate by the Republican legislature, ends a remarkable situation, and establishes the fact that the people ruled in one instance, and fidelity to the voters was stronger than party fealty in Oregon. Chamberlain was selected by popular vote over his Republican opponent, the vote binding the assemblymen-elect to carry out popular instructions. The legislature elected was strongly Republican. Under political conditions, such as prevail in Oregon, party managers will be compelled to put forth their best men, or see their candidates defeated by some popular idol.

BALLARD IS WIDE AWAKE.

A dispatch from Wickliffe should be read with interest by the planters and farmers of McCracken county, particularly in the vicinity of Paducah. The dispatch says: "A number of farmers met here yesterday afternoon and organized the Ballard County Truck Patch Association, with Charles Wickliffe as president and B. F. Tillis secretary. This is a first-class section for early vegetables and the object of the association is to bring agents of the big commission houses of Chicago and St. Louis here so that the vegetables, etc., may be delivered and paid for at the railroad stations, as is done at many places south and north of this place."

Local commission men have been urging farmers for the last several market for garden truck. Co-operation is necessary to the success of such an enterprise. The market must be assured for an even quality of vegetables and there must be large quantities raised. Vegetables would lose their freshness, sent by ordinary freight, while to send them by express is too expensive to be profitable. The only satisfactory method is to send them in by refrigerator line, and if quantities sufficient to pay the railroad for the service are shipped, ice cars can be hurried in a few hours from Paducah to Chicago and St. Louis, where the highest prices are obtained.

HOW CITIES ARE MADE.

It is a sad thing to discover the attitude of some of Paducah's "leading citizens" in regard to the license ordinance. We do not refer to the men, who appeared on the floor of the general council and argued the question. They felt that they had a real grievance against language of the ordinance, or at least, against the interpretation put upon it by George Walters, to whom they unblinkingly went to pay their license. We refer to the men, who consider themselves the head and front of progress, but who privily seek to escape their share of the burden of maintaining a city. They profit more by maintenance of the city government, than do the small home owners. The police and fire protection is a greater convenience to them, than to the owners of property further out. Their danger is greater, their risk of loss greater.

We know it hurts to come across with five or ten dollars just to make Paducah look like the kind of city she ought to look like. We know it seems much more reasonable to chip in a hundred dollars towards a glass plant, for instance, than ten dollars towards improving the city. We know it is easier to stand up at a banquet and talk about progress, than to lend a shoulder to the wheel.

When hard times come it isn't the season for those, who are interested in the advancement of the city, to decline to contribute to the actual necessities of the occasion. Other communities are not sitting back on their haunches and howling hard times. This isn't idle talk. The lesson was learned by a personal visit to a town of 25,000 inhabitants, that paved fourteen streets last summer, not because times were good but because times were hard, and citizens thought it the opportune season to spend some money on public improvements, whereby men out of jobs could get something to do at home. That town didn't lose any inhabitants in 1908.

If Mayor Smith and the members of the general council will stand pat and improve the city with the revenue secured, they will find the great body of citizens behind them in their enterprise.

It is not only Mayor Smith's administration that is at stake; this general council, perhaps, would like to make a record, and not one for creating a floating debt immediately after its predecessor had practically wiped one out, and left municipal finances in such a condition that a deficit is not necessary. The present general council is not responsible for the present license ordinance. As customary the ordinance was enacted in December by boards which had a year's experience behind them, saving the new boards the embarrassment of framing a revenue ordinance immediately upon their organization.

Those members of the general council, who have not enjoyed the benefit of previous experiences in public affairs, will learn in time, that the few persons immediately affected by any measure are on guard to exclaim against whatever burden may be imposed on them; but the great mass of voters are watching results of the administration, and this general council, as well as the mayor, who has no ambition for political preferment, will be judged by what they accomplish. People do not object to supporting a municipal government, once they see practical results in attractive and beneficial improvements, visible to the eye. The trouble with Paducah has been that the tax assessment has been ridiculously low, and no license ordinance has ever yet been permitted to stand after being drawn, and the city has been going in debt, while the few public improvements ever made are deteriorating.

As far as Mr. Wilson's complaint against the extortion of cumulative licenses is concerned, he is justified in protesting, and if there is any confusion in the language of the ordinance, that could very easily be remedied by an amendment, altering the confusing language, so that a merchant would have to pay only one license.

SOME STORIES AROUND TOWN

It seems as though the citizens of Paducah, who are compelled to wear glasses and who wish to celebrate now and then, always chose Sunday for this sort of sport. It occurs about one Monday out of every month that prominent opticians of the city are rushed almost to death to replace broken lenses and repair spectacles of people, who might have broken their spectacles accidentally. Last Monday was repair day, 17 pairs of spectacles were brought in one optician's office between 8 and 11 o'clock in the morning, smashed during the Sunday frolic.

We should like to hear some of the value almost ten fold since the destructive earthquake in southern Sicily and Italy according to the wholesale druggists. The world's supply is received from a manufacturer named Sanderson in Sicily, and the market price was from $2 to $2.50 a pound, but now the supply in America is extremely short and the price has advanced to $20 a pound, with prospects of a much higher price should the market not receive more of the product in a few months. The oil is not classed as a necessity, but is an important compound in all flavoring extracts. At the time of the earthquake a large shipment of the oil prepared for dealers in the United States was ready for the ships, and now workers are toiling every hour to try and locate the supply if not destroyed. Should it be found the shortage would be relieved. The manufacturer is believed to have been killed in the earthquake, but the process by which the oil is extracted is not a secret, and the manufacture will not be stopped by his death.

REVIVAL

AT FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH CONTINUES.

Unabated Interest Is Felt in Meetings Conducted By Dr. Crossfield—Salvation Army.

The revival at the First Christian church continues with unabated interest. There were four more confessions last night and a large audience present. President Crossfield's sermon on "Why Some People Do Not Join the Church" was one calculated to stir the consciences of the people. Some think they are good enough, others think they can't hold out and some think they will have to give up friends and pleasures. To others it is convenient. The excuse is made that there are hypocrites in the church and many other excuses are offered. The fallacy of all these was clearly shown by the preacher and the duty paramount to all others was held up in the light of God's word. All such illogical and fallacious excuses are but a device of the evil one to deter men from entering the kingdom of God. Men are more timid about this matter than they are about other matters, and yet there is less risk incurred than in any other undertaking in life.

The sermon made a profound impression. This afternoon Dr. Crossfield will lecture as usual to Sunday school workers and preach again at night. His subject will be "Mother, Home and Heaven." Professor Sturgis will sing "The Prodigal." The sunbeam chorus sang last night, to the delight of everybody. A cordial welcome is extended to all who come.

Major Andrews and Captain Bates.

Major Andrews, of the Salvation Army, and Captain Bates, of Cincinnati, will conduct special services at the Kentucky Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock. Fine music, good singing, sweet solos by Captain Bates. Major Andrews recently returned from the Salvation Army staff college, London, England. They will be assisted by other mission workers. Seats free. Welcome.

Fountain Avenue.

A large congregation welcomed the Rev. E. B. Ramsey, of Memphis, at the Fountain Avenue Methodist church last night. Dr. Ramsey, who formerly lived in Paducah, and is most popular here, preached an earnest sermon on "Desires," bringing out the desire of others to be saved, and the influence exerted by those inside the church and those outside. The music, led by S. J. Billington, with Mrs. Ben Burnett at the piano, was excellent. Services at 10 a. m. and tonight at 7:30 p. m. This morning Dr. Ramsey preached the first of a series of sermons on consecration. Tonight's sermon will be to the irre-

He walked somewhat forlornly into St. Michael's square, and, as luck would have it—Lepage thought it very bad luck—the first man he ran against was Captain Markart. Uneasy in his conscience, Lepage tried to evade the encounter, but the captain was of another mind. His head was sound again, and, on cool reflection, he was glad to have slept through the events of what Stenovic's proclamation had styled "the auspicious day." He seized little Lepage by the arm, greeted him with cordiality and carried him off to drink at the Golden Lion. Without imputing any serious lack of sobriety to his companion, Lepage thought that this refreshment was not the first of which the good humored captain had partaken that afternoon, his manner was so very cordial, his talk so very free.

"Well, here we are," he said. "We did our best, you and I, Lepage. Our consciences are clear. As loyal subjects we have now to accept the existing regime."

"What is it?" asked Lepage. "I've been indoors a week."

"It's Alexis—still Alexis!" said Markart, with a laugh. "You surely don't take Baroness Dobravina into account?"

"I just wanted to know," said Lepage, drinking thoughtfully.

"And—er—captain—behind Alexis? Guiding the youthful king? Countess Ellenburg?"

"No doubt, no doubt. Behind him his very pious mother, Lepage."

"And behind her?" persisted Lepage.

Markart laughed, but cast a glance round and shook his head.

"Come, come, captain, don't leave an old friend in the dark, just where information would be useful."

"An old friend! Oh, when I remember my aching head! You think me very forgiving, M. Lepage."

"If you knew the night I spent, you'd forgive me anything," said Lepage, with a shudder of reminiscence.

"Ah, well," said Markart after another draft, "I'm a soldier. I shall obey my orders."

"Perfect, captain! And who will give them to you, do you think?"

"That's exactly what I'm waiting to see. Oh, I've turned prudent! No more adventures for me!"

"I'm quite of your mind, but it's so difficult to be prudent when one doesn't know which is the strongest side."

"You wouldn't go to Volosini?" laughed Markart.

"Perhaps not, but there are difficulties nearer home. If you went out of this door and turned to the left, you would come to the offices of the council of ministers. If you turned to the right and thence to the right again and on to the north wall, you would come, captain, to Suleiman's tower. Now, as I understand, Colonel Stenovic?"

"Is at the tower and the general at the offices, eh?"

"Precisely. Which turn do you mean to take?"

Markart looked round again. "I shall sit here for a bit longer," he said. "I finished his liquor thereby perhaps, adding just the touch of openness lacking to his advice and leaning forward, touched Lepage on the arm."

"Do you remember the prince's guns, the guns for which he bartered Captain Hercules?"

"Aye, well!" said Lepage.

"They're on the river, up at Kolskol now. I should keep my eye on them. They're to be brought to Slavia. Who do you think'll bring them? Keep your eye on that."

"They're both scoundrels," said Lepage, rising to go.

Markart shrugged his shoulders. "The fruit lies on the ground for the man who can pick it up. Why not? There's nobody who's got any right to it now."

He expressed exactly the view of the two great neighbors, though by no means in the language which their official communications adopted.

Stenovic knew their views very well. He had also received a pretty plain intimation from Stenovic that the colonel considered the escorting of the guns to Slavia as a purely military task, appertaining not to the ministry of state, but to the officer commanding the garrison in the capital. Stenovic was that officer, and he proposed himself to go to Kolskol. Suleiman's tower, he added, would be left in the trustworthy hands of Captain Sterkoff. Again Stenovic fully understood. Indeed, the colonel was almost brutally candid. His letter was nothing less than plain word that power lay with the sword and that the sword was in his own hand. Stenovic had got rid of King Sergius only to fall under the rule of Dictator Stenovic. Was that to be the end of it?

Stenovic preferred any other issue. The ideal thing was his own rule in the name of young Alexis, with such diplomatic honoring and humoring of Countess Ellenburg as might prove necessary. That was plainly impossible so long as Stenovic was master of the army. It would become finally hopeless if Sterkoff held Suleiman's tower till Stenovic brought the guns to Slavia. What, then, was Stenovic's alternative? For he was not yet

FOR AGED PEOPLE.

Old Folks Should Be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

With advanced age comes inactive bowel movement and sluggish liver. Nature is unable to perform her proper functions and requires assistance. Otherwise, there is constant suffering from constipation and its attendant evils. Old folks should never use physic that is harsh and irritating.

We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorder. We are so certain that it will cure these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer them with our personal guarantee that they shall cost the user nothing if they fail to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies have a soothing, healing, strengthening, tonic and regulative action upon the dry, relaxed muscular coat of the bowel. They produce a natural, successive contraction and relaxation of the muscular fibres of the bowel walls, generating a wave-like motion which forces their contents onward and outward; thus stimulating nature in perfect bowelmovement. They also remove all irritation, dryness, soreness and weakness. They tone up and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity. They may be taken at any time without inconvenience, do not cause any griping, nausea, diarrhea, excessive looseness, flatulence or other disagreeable effect. Try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. 36 tablets 25c, and 12 tablets 10c.—W. B. McPherson, Paducah, Ky.

time to make friends with the mammon of unrighteousness.

Privately, as became invalids, without the knowledge of any one outside their confidential entourage, the representatives of the two great neighbors received General Stenovic. They are believed to have convinced him that in the event of any further disorders in Kravonia intervention could not be avoided. Troops were on either frontier, ready for such an emergency. A joint occupation would be forced on the allies. With a great deal of sorrow no doubt the general felt himself driven to accept this conclusion.

He at once requested Stenovic to fetch the guns to Slavia. He left the colonel full discretion in the matter. His only desire was to insure the tranquility of the capital and to show Volosini how hopeless it was to maintain the fanciful and absurd claims of Baroness Dobrava. The representatives, it must be supposed, approved this attitude and wished the general all success. At a later date his efforts to secure order and to avoid the inevitable but regrettable result of any new disturbance were handsomely acknowledged by both powers. General Stenovic had not Stenovic's nerve and dash, but he was a man of considerable resource.

A Radical Departure.

There never was a time in the history of the world when good stories and articles could command such large prices as they do today. It is an extremely expensive thing to publish a high-class magazine nowadays, filled with the best products of the most famous authors and artists.

Yet together with its many attractive features the Chicago Record-Herald furnishes its readers with its Sunday magazine section that compares favorably with the best weeklies and monthlies, and has some merits peculiar to itself. The most famous writers and illustrators contribute to it. Some of the choicest novels of the year are published serially in its columns before they see the light in book form. The best new humorist since Mr. Dooley began writing is a regular contributor to its columns alone. To furnish such a magazine with every copy of a Sunday newspaper is an amazing venture, yet the experiment has proved a complete success and is now firmly established.

Polar Bear and Walrus.

Since the beginning of time there probably has been enmity between the polar bear and the walrus. Except for the walrus, bruin's reign over the arctic regions has been almost unchallenged since the race of mammoths passed. All the hardy flesh eaters that inhabit the bleak, unfertile northland are his natural prey. But most of all he depends upon the seals and sea lions for his food. There is only one animal that is powerful enough to defend itself and offspring against the polar bear's attack—the huge and cumbersome walrus; but its movements are so slow and awkward when out of the water that often it is impossible for the bulky animal to retard the swift attack and retreat of its smaller opponent.—St. Nicholas.

Brotherhood Building.

In March, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, will begin the construction in Cleveland of a huge twelve-story office building and union headquarters, representing the expenditure of $1,000,000.

The building will be the largest in the country owned by a labor organization. Designed along the lines of the Railway Exchange building at Chicago, it will have 161,000 feet of rentable floor space.

The site, one of the most valuable pieces of land in Cleveland, is in the center of the city—at St. Clair avenue and Ontario street. On the first floor will be a great auditorium for convention purposes. Knox & Elliott are the architects.

Popular Young Couple Married Today at Paris, Tenn.

Miss Willie Grogan and Mr. Polk Byrd, popular young people of the city, were married this morning at 10 o'clock in Paris, Tenn., by the Rev. W. T. ### Handsome Afternoon Card Party.

Exceedingly effective in all of its appointments was Mrs. James Weller's card party yesterday afternoon at the Standard club. The Japanese idea was beautifully carried out in the decorations. Ropes of pink and white tissue paper extended the length of the long assembly room and were caught together just below the three chandeliers with inverted Japanese parasols filled with white chrysanthemums.

The card tables were arranged in rows lengthwise down the sides of the assembly room. In the center of the room was a large table. This was veiled with a Chiny lace cover. The centerpiece was a silver basket filled with pink and white carnations. Silver candelabra with pink shaded candles were at the opposite corners. The color motif was prettily carried out in the course luncheon served after the game. The Japanese effect was emphasized in the tallies and other features of the game.

The young lady's prize, a pair of black silk hose was won by Miss Lucile Weil. The married lady's prize, a cut glass dish, went to Mrs. Calhoun Riecke. The lone hand prize, a book, was won by Mrs. I. D. Wilcox. The visitors' prize, a hand-painted plate, went to Mrs. G. Wolf of St. Louis. Miss Annie Dreyfuss was the game scorer's prize. It was a gold hat pin. Mrs. Milton U. Levy, of Atlanta, Ga., was presented with a bunch of carnations.

The guests were: Mesdames Wynn Tully, M. G. Cope, Jacob Wallerstein, Herman Wallerstein, Milton U. Levy, of Atlanta; Harry Hinkle, George B. Hart, Samuel Fels, Melvin Wallerstein, Ben Weille, John J. Berry, Frank Boyd, P. H. Stewart, J. B. Bartee, J. C. Flournoy, Earl Palmer, Charles Thompson, H. S. Wells, Sam Starks, Jacob Hecht, Will Gilbert, William Hughes, Moses Schwab, L. S. ### HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

Proved a Wise, Good Friend.

A young woman out in Ia. found a wise, good friend in her mother-in-law, jokes notwithstanding. She writes: "It is two years since we began using Postum in our house. I was greatly troubled with my stomach, complexion was blotchy and yellow. After meals I often suffered sharp pains and would have to lie down. My mother often told me it was the coffee I drank at meals. But when I'd quit coffee I'd have a severe headache."

"While visiting my mother-in-law I remarked that she always made such good coffee, and asked her to tell me how. She laughed and told me it was easy to make good 'coffee' when you use Postum."

"I began to use Postum as soon as I got home, and now we have the same good 'coffee' (Postum) every day, and I have no more trouble. Indigestion is a thing of the past, and my complexion has cleared up beautifully."

"My grandmother suffered a great deal with her stomach. Her doctor told her to leave off coffee. She then took tea but that was just as bad. She finally was induced to try Postum which she has used for over a year. She travelled during the winter over the greater part of Iowa, visiting, something she had not been able to do for years. She says she owes her present good health to Postum."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in issue "There's a ### Delightful Speaker.

The series of lectures that will be brought to Paducah under the auspices of the Woman's club, on February 8, 9, 10, is meeting with much encouragement from the public. Dr. Guy Carleton Lee is a lecturer of note and a man of wide learning who has filled positions of responsibility in the educational and literary world. Of his personality the Catholic World says:

"It is fitting, before we quote from the address, to say a word as to the appearance of the lecturer, for certainly first impressions have much to do with the success or failure of a speaker. In the case of Guy Carleton Lee the effect of the magnificent voice of the orator was greatly enhanced by the magnetism of his presence. His ease and elegance of gesture are such as to justify the statement that he is not the only most forceful, but the most graceful of American speakers. His exquisite manners are, too, so thoroughly masculine and virile as to give to them that rare charm which attracts men even more than women. Indeed, nature has wonderfully endowed this orator, and knowledge has added to nature's endowment. It is, then, not a matter of wonder that we quote at length from his magnificent lecture, 'The Strength of the People.'"

Pretty Tribute to the Veterans of "Marse" Robert on January 10.

An occasion that was a blending of pleasure and pathos, was the entertainment given in honor of the James T. Walbert camp of Confederate Veterans by the Paducah chapter, last evening at the Woman's club building. The occasion celebrated the birthday of General Robert E. Lee. There were 49 members of the camp present and one veteran had driven 20 miles to be on hand. Many wore the scars of battle as proudly as they do their Crosses of Honor.

The club house was appropriately decorated with the Confederate flags and the colors red and white. A patriotic Southern program was rendered during the first part of the evening. Mrs. Roy McKimney, the president of the Paducah chapter, presided with grace and charm. The music delightfully featured war-time ballads that especially appealed to the hearts of the old soldiers. Mrs. Lela Wade Lewis sang "Dixie" and the Daughters of the Confederacy and the veterans joined in the chorus. It had an inspiring ring. Mrs. John Brooks rendered "The Last Rose of Summer" with tender pathos. An eloquent address on the life and character of General Lee was made by Col. R. J. Barber. Mrs. W. C. Gray sang "Maryland, My Maryland" and was compelled to respond with additional verses of the beloved melody. Dr. David G. Murrell spoke most interestingly on "General Lee as a Connecting Link Between the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Daughters of the Confederacy." His talk was alive with memories of the Old South. Miss Julia Scott sang with exquisite charm the old love song, "Her Bright Eyes were enjoyed. Coffee and sand which were served. The tables had bunches of small Confederate flags for the centerpieces. That the old-time Southern chivalry has not died out entirely is evidenced by one veteran gallantly saying that it was worth all that he had gone through in the war to be served by such fair women.

NOTICE.

I urgently request all persons indebted to me to make settlement before the first day of May, 1909, as I will after that date bring suit on every unpaid note and account due me. Now your account is to each of you a small matter, while the whole is to me very important. I shall deal with all alike; if you don't pay you may know that you will be sued, whatever your name or color may be. I hate to do this, but I am forced to it in self-defense. If you have not the money and will borrow it to pay me in full by the first day of March, 1909, I will deduct 10 per cent from your account, thereby paying the interest myself. Is this not as fair as any sane man can ask?

RUSSIA FEARING AN OUTBREAK OF ANARCHY AGAIN

London, Jan. 20.—Russia's system of news suppression is so perfect that details are almost impossible to get concerning events the government wants kept secret, but there is no doubt that one of the biggest roundups of political suspects is in progress that the country has known in years.

The facts are leaking out, as usual, largely through the colonies of revolutionary exiles in London, Paris, Geneva and Copenhagen. Their information, which is generally, if mysteriously, speedy and accurate, is that the police believe Russia is on the eve of a tremendous outbreak of terrorist violence and are exerting themselves to the utmost to prevent or least cripple it.

Arrests in the past fortnight in the larger Russian towns, it is asserted, have numbered between 1,000 and 1,200. Among the prisoners are said to be many members of aristocratic families and a number of highly educated and brilliant women. The revolutionary version is that, though the outbreak, the police fear, has actually been planned, it is not to begin before spring.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

His Sign Down. A disheveled man, much the worse for liquor, staggered out of a Maine "speak-easy" and laboriously propped himself against the door. For a while he owlishly surveyed the passers-by. Suddenly his foot slipped and he collapsed in a heap on the sidewalk. A moment later he was snoring.

A hurrying pedestrian passed, reflectively surveyed the fallen man for a few seconds, and then poked his head in the door.

"Oh, Frank," he called. "Frank. Come out here a minute."

Presently the proprietor of the joint, smoking a fat cigar, emerged. He blinked in the bright sunshine. "Hello Bud," he said pleasantly. "What's up?"

Bud jerked his thumb toward the slumberer on the sidewalk.

"Yer sign has fell down," he explained, and briskly resumed his walk uptown.—Everybody's Magazine.

Club Sandwich's Origin.

Alan Johnstone is said to have originated the famous club sandwiches, and the story runs that on going to the club one night between midnight and daybreak he found the cafe closed, the cooks gone, and being nearly famished, he invaded the larder, toasted himself some thick slices of bread, sliced them through, buttered them while hot, and laid thereon everything he found in the refrigerator, cold chicken, ham and lettuce, with a spoonful of mayonnaise. The result was such an epicurean discovery as is not often made, but the story was too good to keep; he confided the recipe to his cronies and it straightway became one of the popular dishes of the club men, and so the father of the club sandwich, so deservedly popular, is the present British minister to Copenhagen.—Washington Herald.

The Cat and Dog of It.

(Copyrighted, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.)
By all the laws and the prophets of precedent Kenworthy should have made a stormy exit at the height of the quarrel. In staying on when the final word had been said and grim silence had succeeded the heated accusations and counter accusations he was guilty of an anticlimax. But Kenworthy was no respecter of precedent, and at present it mattered not a rap to him whether he was guilty of an anticlimax or not. He only knew that he was utterly miserable and that the fine view he had of Alicia's back—turned to him with an obviousness not to be gainsaid—was in nowise encouraging.

He sat in the hammock, his face a study of contradicting emotions, gazing abstractedly ahead and pulling the silky ears of Rajah, the brindie bull terrier that lolled beside him. Twice he essayed to speak, but each time as he raised his eyes and caught sight of that uncompromising back the words died on his lips.

At length he looked down at the dog. A whimsical smile curved his lips, and he looked grimly toward Alicia, who to all intents was interested in the distant landscape.

"Rajah, old boy," he said, addressing the dog, "it strikes me that women are getting very unfair these days. They accuse a chap of all sorts of things, and when he offers to explain they fly into a fine dudgeon and turn their backs on him. They give him the maximum sentence without a trial."

He glanced at the girl. She was quite unmoved. The landscape was apparently quite as absorbing as ever. The back was certainly no whit less uncompromising.

"I've been ill treated, old man," Kenworthy went on. "I wanted to explain it all to her, but she wouldn't listen."

At that moment a Persian kitten came stalking across the lawn, paused irresolutely beneath the trees and then jumped into Alicia's lap.

"Teddy, you dear," cried the girl, stroking the kitten's white coat, "you knew I wanted to tell you something about men, didn't you?"

Kenworthy picked up his ears. "Teddy," she went on confidentially, "all men are horrid—selfish and horrid. You can't trust any of them."

Kenworthy smiled at the dog.

"Between you and me, Rajah," said he, "I think the sum and substance of the whole matter is jealousy."

"Imagine my being jealous, Teddy," said the girl scornfully. "Who on earth would I be jealous of?"

"I imagine it's the Bronson girl, Rajah," said Kenworthy.

"The Bronson girl goes automobile-ing quite frequently of late," said the girl to the kitten. "And she's such a horrid little flirt! She boasted when she came here she'd have a spin in every car in town. I did think, Teddy—"

"By Jove, it is jealousy!" said Kenworthy, forgetting to address his remarks to the dog.

"Didn't I tell you men were horrid, Teddy?" said Alicia, with much conviction.

Kenworthy chuckled softly.

"Do you suppose she really cares if I did take the Bronson girl for a spin, Rajah?" he asked.

"He was to come here at 4 yesterday afternoon, Teddy," she said. "It was half past 5 before he came. I'm glad he found such congenial company."

"See here, Rajah," said Kenworthy, "the explanation she refused to listen to I shall tell to you."

"Aren't men clever at explaining, Teddy?" asked the girl with sarcasm.

"You see," Kenworthy went on, patting the dog, "I started out in the car to run over here yesterday afternoon. When I got to the old Bassett place there was Jim Culver lying flat on the ground beneath that runaway of his."

"I'm hushed," says Jim to me, and Miss Bronson wants to get that 4:52 from the junction. Think you can get her over? You'll have to make a record! What could a fellow do, Rajah, old chap? He couldn't be cad enough to refuse, now, could he?"

The girl stroked the kitten thoughtfully. "It's a very clever explanation," she mused.

"The worst of it is, Rajah, she won't believe a word of it," said he gloomily. "I'm almost tempted to believe it, Teddy," said she.

"And if she does believe it she won't be sorry for the way she treated me," he went on.

"I'm almost tempted to be sorry," she said softly.

"And even if she is sorry she'll never care for me the way I've been trying for the past four years to have her care," he persisted.

The girl held the kitten at arms' length. "Teddy," she said very softly, "I'm almost tempted to—" She stopped, flushing deeply.

Kenworthy sprang from the hammock with a suddenness that precipitated Rajah to the ground.

"Alicia, Alicia," he cried, "I dare you to finish that sentence!"

The girl dropped the kitten. She turned to Kenworthy, and her eyes met his bravely.

"I dare you to finish that sentence," he repeated.

"I'm—I'm almost tempted—I am tempted and I do—that is—I yield to the temptation," she said slowly.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.
Paducah women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headache, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Paducah woman's words:

Mrs. Walter Mathews, 1250 North Thirteenth street, Paducah, Ky., says: "I used the contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they did more to relieve me of a lame back and pain in my left side than all else I ever used. Before taking them I suffered intensely from pains in my back and sides, at times was hardly able to do my housework. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended and procured a box at DuBois Son & Co.'s drug store. I took them as directed and was more than pleased with the results."

CITY MARKET FOR THE GARDENERS

Board of Public Works Chooses From Ten.

If There Was More Room Many More Stalls Could Be Rented—Ten Applicants for One.

BRADSHAW CREEK CULVERT.

That the city market is for the use of the gardeners of the county, was the decision reached last night by the board of public works at the regular meeting when there were two benches rented to residents of the county. If there was room on the market, about 25 more benches could be rented, and every time there is a vacancy there are many applicants for it. Last night there were ten applications for one bench. Bench No. 66 was rented to W. A. Campbell, a truck gardener. Albert Sapirillo, who sells fruits and confectioneries on the market, was refused a bench, and his place was given to D. H. Mitcheson, colored, because the board announced the purpose of favoring the truck gardener. A huckster, residing in Graves county, wanted to rent a bench, but the board turned his application down in favor of a McCracken county grower.

Bids for the construction of the culvert near Fountain avenue and Broadway will be re-advertised for by the board, as the aldermen refused to approve the former bid. Mr. H. M. Weikle owns the property along which he is making a fill, and before he bid he agreed to receive payment through the tax accumulating system. The lowland when filled will make a fine residence section, and will help eliminate the stench from Bradshaw creek. Mr. Weikle last night said to the board that if the culvert to control the creek from Broadway to Jefferson street was not built, he would build cheap houses on the property. He disclaimed any threat upon the board, but said he would be compelled to do it. The board decided to re-advertise for bids, and open them February 2.

Sewer Work.
The sewer for the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad on South Sixth street near Norton street has been begun. The railroad officials wanted an inspector from the city placed on the work, but seeking to avoid this extra expense City Engineer Washington was instructed to oversee the work. Mr. Washington reported that the work was going on all right, as he makes trips to the sewer every day, and inspects the work completed.

The regular reports from the light and street departments were received and filed.

Street Inspector Ernest Bell reported that property owners on North Third street between Jefferson and Monroe streets had failed to make temporary repairs to bad places in the sidewalk, and he was instructed that the work must be done.

J. O. Keebler, superintendent of the city light plant, reported that a new arc light had been placed at Third and Madison streets, and that it will burn tonight for the first time. A request from Mr. Keebler for a typewriter for his office was laid on the table until next meeting so that the amount of the apportionment may be known.

A. Franke, sewer inspector, reported that several manholes are lower than the street and that gravel sifts down in the pipe, and that the top is covered over with gravel. He was instructed to have the tops raised where necessary.

Street Inspector Ernest Bell was instructed by the board to sell a horse that had become unfit for service in the street department.

President Richard Rudy and Secretary Louis Kolb were present at the meeting last night. Mr. Katterjohn was out of the city.

How is Your Digestion.
Mrs. Mary Dowling of No. 228 8th Ave., San Francisco, recommends a remedy for stomach trouble. She says: "Gratitude for the wonderful effect of Electric Bitters in a case of acute indigestion, prompts this testimonial. I am fully convinced that for stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market today." This great tonic and alterative medicine invigorates the system, purifies the blood and is especially helpful in all forms of female weakness. 50c at all druggists.

Light May Blind Fish.
The possibility that all fish of the deep water classes in the battery aquarium may lose their sight if the policy of keeping that institution open until 10 o'clock at night on certain days of the week is continued, has aroused much discussion among students of ichthyology in the last few days. The chief question discussed is whether the fishes can endure on their unhidden eyes for more than six hours of the twenty-four strong rays of artificial unshaded light. It is asserted by experts that even though the brilliancy may have no immediate effect it will eventually cause blindness in such fish as the sturgeon, which in its natural haunts remains many feet below the surface.—New York Press.

LONG INCROYABLE COAT.

One of the most picturesque garments which has been purloined from the old-time directorate style is the long incroyable coat that reaches quite to the bottom of the gown. It is entirely different from the straight, shapeless cutaway coats that have been worn during the last two seasons, for it has a body skirt like, and yet most unlike, the redingote. It has the empire waistline and straight, rather closely-fitting skirt, while the most markedly incroyable features are the exaggerated revers and small sleeves with a line of buttons from elbow to wrist.

A coat of this kind, which was the chief d'oeuvre of a famous house, was in dull sandstone colored cloth lined with deep iris purple. The upper part of the coat was narrow shouldered and rather close-fitting. The front crossed a little above the waist line, bringing together two enormous revers of the cloth faced with purple satin and trimmed with dull gold buttons and heavy satin-covered cord. There was a high standing collar of the cloth faced with satin, as well as narrow cuffs of the same at the wrist of the small, close sleeve that buttoned to the elbow with gold buttons and buttonholes outlined with a heavy cord. The hands were almost concealed by a ruche of killed malines dyed the color of the coat.

A shawl of the purple satin defined the waistline and fastened under a rosette at the side front of the coat, hanging down almost to the knees and ending in heavy padded ball ornaments. The skirt of the coat was circular and rather narrow in effect, falling in heavy folds to the hem of the dress. In the back the fullness was laid in an inverted plait so that the flat effect was unbroken. It is one of the extreme versions of the present modes that can be heartily endorsed because of its real beauty and charm. In its dull, rich colorings and perfect lines it looks like some old-time portrait out of its frame. It is a mode that will undoubtedly be seen frequently during the coming year, not only for day time, but for evening wear, though in the latter case the sleeve will be larger and looser.—Delineator.

"I have had seven years of proof that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best medicine to take for coughs and colds and for every diseased condition of throat, chest or lungs," says W. V. Henry, of Panama, Mo. Its timely use always prevents the development of pneumonia. Sold under guarantee at all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

One Wife Not Enough.
Polygamy is the rule, the reason given being that it is impossible for one woman to do all the work of the house, look after the children, prepare the food, fetch the daily supply of water (often an arduous job), cultivate the plantation and go to market. The African is an exceedingly hungry person. It is the custom to eat several times a day when at home, and the men spend most of their day sitting in the palaver house or market place, while the women bring the food all day long. One wife could not possibly do this. Besides, the African lady encourages it, for she says: "The more wives the less work."—London Geographical Journal.

MRS. EDDY WARNS WOULD-BE RIVAL

Leader Advises Mrs. Stetson to Cease From Display.

Many Members of Organization Think
First Congregation of Gotham
Will Be Cut Off.

CHURCH WAR IS IMPENDING

Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, the aged leader and founder of the Christian Science church, yesterday broke the silence of a year to fling out the signal of danger over Mrs. Augusta Stetson, leader of the First Church of Christ Scientist in New York.

In a signed editorial Mrs. Eddy gives warning that Mrs. Stetson's efforts to build a magnificent branch edifice of the New York church and continue the splendor of her present regime meant only failure in the real purpose of the cult.

This marks the first definite sign of a split in the Christian Science movement. That Mrs. Eddy should take personal cognizance of it demonstrates that the danger is fully realized by her and her satellites.

Mrs. Stetson, it is said, is ambitious to succeed to Mrs. Eddy's place upon the death of the founder of the movement. The New York woman is now the power behind the throne in the richest Scientist church in the United States. Her picture adorns the church walls.

Recently she has been working on plans for building a new $250,000 church, to be subsidiary to her and to the New York church, instead of giving direct allegiance to the mother church.

With Mrs. Eddy's warning in view it is now expected by many Christian Scientists that Mrs. Stetson and her church will be cut adrift speedily unless this plan is forsaken.

Mrs. Eddy's Veiled Threat.

Mrs. Eddy, in the weekly edition of the Scientist, the official organ of the church, says:

"The infinite is one, and this one is spirit; spirit is God, and this God is infinite good."

"This simple statement of oneness is the only possible correct version of Christian Science. God being infinite, he is the only basis of science; hence, materially is wholly apart from Christian Science, and is only a 'suffer' it to be so now until we arrive at the spiritual fullness of God, spirit, even the divine idea of Christian Science, Christ, born of God, the offspring of spirit, wherein matter has neither part nor portion, because matter is the absolute opposite of spiritual means, manifestation and demonstration. The only incentive of a mistaken sense is malicious animal magnetism—the name of all evil—and this must be understood."

"I have crowned the mother church building with the spiritual modesty of Christian Science, which is its jewel. When my dear brethren in New York desire to build higher, to enlarge their phylacteries and demonstrate Christian Science to a higher extent, they must begin on a wholly spiritual foundation, than which there is no other, and proportionately estimate their success and glory of achievement only as they build upon the rock of Christ, the spiritual foundation. This will open the way, widely and impartially, to their never ending success, to salvation and eternal Christian Science."

"Spirit is infinite; therefore, spirit is all. 'There is no matter' is not only the axiom of true Christian Science but it is the only basis upon which this science can be demonstrated."

New York Splendor.

In opposition to this simple view of life and duty and the material world it is said that Mrs. Stetson has surrounded herself with magnificently gowned women, that the First church is a palace of material splendor, and that the poor are not made welcome.

George Shaw Cook, head of the publicity department of the church for the state of Illinois, said last night:

"I do not interpret this editorial to mean that Mrs. Eddy is threatening Mrs. Stetson in any way. I look upon it simply as a warning to the New York church not to drift too far into the love of the material."

Notwithstanding this statement it is the belief of many Christian Scientists that the First church of New York will be cut off from fellowship with the mother church in Boston within a short time and that Mrs. Stetson will endeavor to start a cult of her own.

"No one understands me," he complained. "You ought to get a job in the museum as the human phonograph."—Houston Post.

AT HIGH SCHOOL

DR. CROSSFIELD MAKES ADDRESS THIS MORNING.

Presents Scholarship to Honor Pupil of the Graduating Class of 1909.

Dr. Crossfield, the president of Transylvania university, Lexington, spoke at the High school this morning and presented a four-year scholarship to Miss Marion Williamson, who is the first-honor pupil of the class that will be graduated the last of the month from the Paducah High school. Dr. Crossfield stated that Transylvania university has only a few high schools represented in it, and this tribute to Miss Williamson's high record is a fine recognition that is greatly appreciated by the High school faculty and Superintendent Carnegie.

Transylvania university is the oldest school west of the Allegheny mountains and is identified with many who have made the history of this country. George Washington, helped to establish it. Henry Clay, Chief Justice Harlan and other notable men are among its graduates. Paducah has already had one co-ed at Transylvania. Miss Mabel Weeks being a graduate of it. The State University at Lexington between which and Transylvania there is a keen rivalry, has had a number of Paducah scholars. Dr. Burrus A. Jenkins, who is pleasantly remembered in Paducah, was formerly president of Transylvania.

A Helpmate.

"Isabel, when we are married I intend to get a small farm and go in for raising squabs."

"Oh, how lovely! And I'll help you pick them when they're ripe."—Browning's Magazine.

Lydia Thompson.

"So Lydia Thompson is dead," said a veteran editor of Chicago. "She was a dashing actress in her time. With her company of pretty girl burlesquers she originated the musical comedy of today."

"Lydia horsewhipped a Chicago editor once. He was a friend of mine. It seems he wrote something that reflected on the—or—the steadiness of Lydia's young ladies. So she horsewhipped him."

"A remarkable woman, as ready with her tongue as with her horse-whip. One snowy Christmas night I escorted her from the stage door to her carriage. A wretched ragged fellow stood on the corner selling mistletoe. As Lydia in her sealskins and diamonds passed, this thin, shivering creature whined:

"Mistletoe! Lucky mistletoe! Buy a bunch of mistletoe; it's sure to bring good luck."

"Then keep it all," said Lydia. "You have far more need of luck than I."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Ohio, Cumberland and Tennessee rivers are all rising and river men expect a stage of 20 feet or more in a few days here at Paducah. The steamer Clyde arrived from Joppa last night at 8:30 o'clock and received freight all day. She received three cars of freight down the river. The Clyde will leave at 6 o'clock this evening for Waterloo, Ala., and all way landings. She will return next Monday.

The steamer Kentucky will be due tomorrow night from the Tennessee. The steamer Chattanooga came in to port at 8:30 last night from Joppa and today she received a big cargo of freight for the upper Tennessee. ### BUILDING SHIPS OF STONE.

Small Seagoing Vessels Now Constructed of Stone.

One of the latest uses to which concrete has been put is the construction of small seagoing vessels. Experiments made by an Italian, Signor Gabellini, satisfied him that the material would serve for boats, both large and small. He strengthened the concrete with bars of metal, following the precedent established in the construction of houses and other buildings, and among the advantages which he is said to have discovered in this work is that his hulls have a beautifully smooth exterior, thus reducing the friction, which is hardly credible, and that there is so little wear and tear that the cost of maintenance is insignificant, which is also rather hard to believe.

The proposition is ingenious, but while not necessarily absurd it may not stand the test of time. Concrete can be made to float, of course, and here and there, perhaps, wood may be so scarce and steel plates so expensive as to give it an economical advantage, but it is doubtful if a rigidity like of granite or marble is desirable in the products of marine architecture. A concrete vessel might be more readily crushed or punctured by a collision than a hull possessing some elasticity would be.

The origin of the Gabellini plan is not disclosed. Possibly it was suggested by one recently adopted for the construction of piers, and credited to an American army engineer, Maj. W. V. Judson. The transportation of solid blocks of concrete to the place where they are wanted is beset with difficulties and accordingly it has been proposed to make them hollow, launch them so that they will stay right side up, and tow them to their destination. A test at Barcelona is said to have demonstrated the feasibility of this method. It is now being tried both at Algoma, Wis., by the United States, and at Kobe, Japan, and its merits are obvious. In blocks which are to rest permanently under water unyielding consistency is a recommendation, but as we have suggested, ships are "different again."—New York Tribune.

Agitation is the antidote for stagnation.

Horrible Disaster.

Willie had tried by various means to interest his father in conversation. "Can't you see I'm trying to read?" said the exasperated parent. "Now don't bother me."

Willie was silent for almost a minute. Then, reflectively: "Awful accident in the subway today."

Father looked up with interest. "What's that?" he asked. "What was the accident in the subway?" "Why," replied Willie, edging toward the door, "a woman had her eye on a seat and a man sat on it."—Everybody's Magazine.
